Background

WHY IS IT CRITICAL TO STAND WITH KASHMIR RIGHT NOW?

- On August 5, 2019, the entire Valley of Kashmir was forced under a complete lockdown
- During this time, the Indian government revoked Article 370
- Article 370 gave Kashmir autonomy in all areas except defense, communication, and foreign policy. Article 35A stems from 370 and gave only "permanent residents" the right to buy & own property there
- The Indian government's unconstitutional efforts to bring Kashmir under direct rule by New Delhi attempts to erase the Kashmiri political identity and will set fuel to a resistance that has already been inflamed for decades

AS KASHMIR CONTINUES TO BE UNDER A COMMUNICATION BLACKOUT, IT IS IMPORTANT TO ADVOCATE FOR THE VOICELESS.

6 general ways to get involved

Be a part of marking our social campaign go viral! We are constantly facing backlash from negative comments to reporting our pages until it's shut down, so it's necessary to help build and keep momentum!

- Follow, share, and repost Stand with Kashmir's updates with your connections. Kindly use the following mediums:
 - Website
 - Facebook
 - Twitter
 - Instagram (due to constant reporting of page, it may be temporarily down when you access)
 - Email SWK
 - Change your profile pictures on social media platforms to #RedforKashmir
 - Trend the hashtag #StandwithKashmir
 - Share articles, photos, videos, posts, and infographics on the issue (see 10 days of activism below for guidance)
 - Tag influences and human rights organizations in posts (see suggested list of targets)
 - Share the news of recent atrocities on your professional and educational social platforms (see library of downloadable content)
 - Keep on the lookout for updated versions of this toolkit for the latest content, images, and event updates!

Review guidelines for campaigning

- Post Mindfully! If you are using our hashtags and tagging others, stick to the messaging in this toolkit and refrain from the use of strong language, name-calling, threats of violence, and other personal commentary
- Protect your own privacy! Be mindful of posting information that you would not want the public to see.
- Respect copyright laws! You should never quote more than short excerpts of someone else's work, and always attribute such work to the original author/source.
- Avoid redundancy and message fatigue! We encourage you to use the 10 Days format by posting across social media platforms and phasing them out through the day.

What you can help with right away!

Share our social media handles and raise awareness

1. Change your display picture to color red, to show support and solidarity for Kashmir

“Going red is an expression of solidarity with the Kashmiri people who are living under complete curfew with no window or voice to the outside world. India has cut off all communication in Kashmir. No one can step out of their homes. Meanwhile, Indians are celebrating the revocation of Article 370 as a victory while Kashmiris are living in cages.”

“Going blue raised awareness of the Sudan crisis. Going red is doing the same. Social media is a critical medium of engagement globally and red being a provocative colour, is symbolic of the heightened tensions we are facing.”

“Red is the colour of our blood. Red is the colour of Kong and Chinar. Red is the colour of history. Red is all of us.”

Report credits, Jimin Kim

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

“Near the orange, white and green colors of the Indian flag hanging from the Consulate General of India building in New York City, hundreds of local activists on Friday, August 9 protested the Indian government's intervention in Kashmir.”

Coverage on Berlin Protests

2. Berlino Magazine: On Saturday afternoon, a peaceful protest for the freedom of Kashmir was held in Berlin

(Please note: You may need to convert this from German to English)

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

“A protestor confessed that, the last time he heard his brother by telephone, he had a trembling voice and could not speak freely because he was controlled by soldiers.”

Aamir Suhial Mir, a Kashmiri Computer Engineer in Germany says, "The objective of the protest is to ask the Indian military to withdraw from Kashmir and stop the genocide."

3. Geo News: 'Don't know if our families are safe': occupied Kashmir diaspora in Germany worries about home

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

"A Kashmiri woman hailing from Srinagar told Geo.tv that she was unable to make contact with her family since Monday morning, unsure if her parents were even alive or not or if they had enough food available."

"A Kashmiri protestor, Zeeshan, said he was concerned about his family's well-being and that he could not trust New Delhi's decisions. "Once India was colonised by the British, and, now, Hindu nationalist BJP-led government is trying to subjugate Kashmir," he said."

General Coverage on Protests

4. France24 reports: Modi's shock Kashmir move threatens India's standing on world's stage

Link to France24 report, Share it!

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

"As India prepares to mark Independence Day on August 15, protests against PM Narendra Modi's Kashmir status change and crackdown are set to keep the disputed territory in the spotlight. It's a focus New Delhi would rather avoid."

"The picturesque Himalayan region of Kashmir is dangerously contested territory, parts of it claimed by India, Pakistan and China. While the three nuclear armed nations have gone to war over territorial disputes over the past seven decades, the rights of Kashmiris and their dreams of self-determination have been systematically sacrificed, like lambs to slaughter for the Muslim festival.”

“Outside India, protests broke out over the weekend in neighbouring Pakistan as well as outside Indian embassy and consulate buildings in Western cities such as New York, Los Angeles, London and Birmingham, home to a diaspora displaced by decades of conflict, with protesters chanting, “From Kashmir to Palestine, occupation is a crime”.”

1. BBC Reports: Article 370: Tear gas at Kashmir rally India denies happened
Link to BBC's report, Share it!

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

“Thousands of people took to the streets in Srinagar after Friday prayers, in the largest demonstration since a lockdown was imposed in Indian-administered Kashmir.”

“The BBC witnessed the police opening fire and using tear gas to disperse the crowd. Despite that, the Indian government has said the protest never took place.”

2. NYT Reports: Inside Kashmir, Cut Off From the World: ‘A Living Hell’ of Anger and Fear
Link to NYT Report, Share it!

Some excerpts from this news, for quick copy paste and sharing on social media:

“Correspondents for The New York Times got one of the first inside views of life under lockdown in Kashmir and found a population that felt besieged, confused, frightened and furious by the seismic events of this week.”

“People who ventured out said they had to beg officers to cross a landscape of sandbags, battered trucks and soldiers staring at them through metal face masks. Several residents said they had been beaten up by security forces for simply trying to buy necessities like milk”

“On Friday afternoon, witnesses said tens of thousands of peaceful demonstrators were moving through the streets of Srinagar, chanting freedom slogans and waving Kashmiri flags, when Indian forces opened fire.”

“Afshana Farooq, a 14-year-old girl, was nearly trampled in the stampede.

“We were just marching peacefully after prayers,” said her father, Farooq Ahmed, standing over her as she lay shaking in a Srinagar hospital bed. “Then they started shooting at us.” ”

“At the Lala Ded hospital, sick people had traveled more than a day to get here, only to find a skeleton crew. Many doctors couldn’t get to work. Many patients were curled up on the floor.”

Kashmir dispute: 'We've been pushed back into medieval times'

Indian-administered Kashmir is still in lockdown, following India's controversial decision to remove its special status.

Article 370 had given the area significant autonomy from the rest of the country.

India and Pakistan both claim the Himalayan region of Kashmir in full, but each nation only controls a part of it.

Young Kashmiris say they feel betrayed by India's move and that now their futures look bleak.
